“We stand behind what we do and deliver more than we say we will, always going above and beyond expectations,” affirmed Tebbenkamp. “We strive to make everyone happy.”

To that end, Tebbenkamp will often ask homeowners at the end of a project one pivotal question, “What did we do wrong?”

team produce quality homes at fair prices, what sets them ahead of the pack is their unwavering commitment to pursuing excellence.

That may come as a surprise to many, but in reality, the answers to that question sets the bar for how high the level of excellence will continue to rise.

“We take our clients comments into consideration so that we can improve upon our product,” noted Tebbenkamp. “We want our clients to truly love their homes, not just today but for many years to come.”

Working primarily in North Kansas City, Patriot Homes offers multiple floor plans to suit most any budget. Tebbenkamp and his team, which also includes superintendent Joe Fontenot, work to ensure their clients have a great experience, but with a unique twist.

“We are not builders; we are trim carpenters that build,” explained Tebbenkamp, who has an impressive history in the building industry that has allowed him to artfully hone his craft to the highest standards possible.

Tebbenkamp began his career while he was still in high school, working in construction and doing various handyman side projects on his own. He eventually landed on the opportunity to start a company focused on one of his greatest skills — trim carpentry. As a result, Precision Woodworks was born 14 years ago. Tenacious and ambitious, Tebbenkamp became one of the most respected finish and trim carpenters in the area. During this time, he began Patriot Homes as a side business, eventually growing the company to what it has become today.

“We are a small company, which appeals to clients as we can build faster than the larger companies, and at least one of us is on the job site daily,” he said.

Because of Tebbenkamp’s background in carpentry, especially with respect to doors, trim, bases, and moldings, that expertise and how he views the overall framing process spills into the rest of the building procedure, allowing him and his team to be better builders.
